COMMENT OF THE DAY

TORY CONFERENCE

THE Conservative Party annual conference - has failed to produce the anticipated fireworks of animated debate and the result seems to be a damp squib lacking in any blaze of inspiration. The Party hierarchy was about to face a grave crisis, but the leaders have, at least for the moment, apparently stayed off the more critical elements among the rank and file.

Of the 70-odd resolutions on the agenda criticising the rapidly rising cost of living one of the most nebulous was selected for debate. The resolution merely urged the Government to "take all necessary steps, including a reduction in Government spending and greater efficiency in the nationalised industries, to stabilise the cost of living, control inflation and preserve the value of British currency."

It must be assumed that the leaders hit on the resolution to avoid the argument towards their current policies and preserve some semblance of unity in the Party and to all intents and purposes they have achieved their aim.

MOVE AWAY

HOWEVER, so far nothing has been said about counter-action to avoid further startling results of by-elections. Recent results have shown a definite move away from the Tories and unless a decisive and energetic plan is evolved the pendulum of public opinion will continue its swing towards the left.

Lord Hallam, the new Party Chairman, may have a course of action in mind, but there is nothing in his initial address to indicate what he intends to do to salvage dwindling popularity.

His Lordship has blamed former Socialist policies for the rising cost of living, but this is hardly likely to satisfy the middle classes from which the Tories draw their main strength.

FRIGHTENING

THE rank and file have had a frightening and dismal year and it will not be surprising if they don't take away from Brighton at least one scalp. The Chancellor of the Exchequer was the logical candidate before he found refuge in the two per cent bank rate increase and it is now likely that the former Chairman, Mr. Poole, will bear the brunt of a concerted attack when he replies to a resolution demanding that Tory propaganda should be more clearly explained. This is one resolution which, if passed, will clearly imply shortcomings in the leadership and Mr. Poole might have trouble dodging the axe.

"Soviets Won't Tolerate Provocation In Mid-East" RUSSIA URGES ARAB UNITY

GROMYKO FLAYS THE WEST IN UN SPEECH

Grumyko

United Nations, Oct. 10.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said today that the Soviet Union could not "tolerate" a Middle East turned into a "hot-bed of unceasing military provocations and conflicts."

Speaking to the General Assembly's main political committee, Mr. Gromyko urged Arab states to maintain their unity. He applauded recent Arab declarations contradicting Western statements that Syria had become a threat to other Arab states.

He said Egypt and Syria had shown how to "give a rebuff" to challenges to their independence and said all Arab states could defend their interests as long as "they do not allow themselves to be disunited."

Mr. Gromyko denounced charges that the Soviet Union pursued "intrigues" in the Middle East.

"The Soviet Union has stood and is standing for the preservation of the independence of the Arab states," he said.

"It is opposed to any foreign interference in the internal affairs of the Arab countries. It is against the involvement of these countries in aggressive military blocs, because all this not only endangers the independence and freedom of the Arab peoples, but also constitutes a serious threat to the maintenance of peace in the Near and Middle East."

Mr. Gromyko charged the West with seeking to make the Middle East "a seat of constant provocations and war conflicts."

"The US Government and the entire American propaganda machine keeps on alleging that Syria constitutes a threat to her neighbours. It is known that one Arab state after another has declared that this allegation has no leg to stand on."

False Version

"As a result, the entire false version to the effect that Syria is a threat to some other states has been dispelled."

"At the same time all attempts to cast aspersions on the policy of the Soviet Union with regard to the countries of the Near and Middle East, whose independence has always been respected by the USSR, have been proved unfounded."

"It is not the first time that attempts to ascribe to the Soviet Union some kind of 'intrigues' in the Near and Middle East areas, some kind of ambitions to move into these countries or even to establish a Communist regime there, have collapsed."

"The truth is, however, that those who seek to ascribe such ambitions to the Soviet Union, themselves conduct in the countries of the Near and Middle East, a Colonialist policy, aimed at depriving these countries of their independence, at setting them at loggerheads, at taking possession of their natural resources."

Loggerheads

"We do not wish to set either Egypt, Syria, or any other Arab state at loggerheads with the United States, Britain or France... it is not our fault, not the fault of the Soviet Union, that relations between the USA, Britain and France, on the one hand, and a number of Arab states on the other hand, have deteriorated."

"It is the fault of those who regard the countries of the Near and Middle East as an object of depredation, as a field for domination by foreign monopolies, as a military and strategic springboard, as a small change in the imperialist game."

"Is there any possibility radically to change the situation in the Near and Middle East? Yes, there is. What is necessary is to give up the policy of force and threat of force, to renounce interference in the home affairs of the Arab countries."

"That is what the Soviet Union has been and is calling for."

For Peace?

"If, besides the USSR, the United States and other Western powers also stand for peace in the Near and Middle East, for the independence of the countries of this area, then we shall have a common goal, and the cause of genuine peace, which have arisen in connection with the situation in the above area, will disappear."

Big Plane Crashes In Japan

Tokyo, Oct. 11.

Four Thai officers and four Japanese were injured when a Royal Thai Air Force C-47 transport crashed into a cluster of Japanese houses just after taking off from the Tachikawa Air Base yesterday.

Two of the crew were discharged from a U.S. Military Hospital today, but Captain Wataru Banaga who suffered a serious skull injury was to be transferred to the Tokyo Army Hospital and Major Parasari Tongyoo was kept in for observation.

All of the injured Japanese, except a 28-year-old housewife, Mrs. Yoshiko Kinoshita, were discharged from the Japanese Hospital to which they were rushed.

The plane crashed just after taking off from Tachikawa, when one of its engines failed. The plane banked to the left in a steep turn but lost speed and crashed into a cluster of four houses in the village of Sana-kawa. —United Press.

EOKA Ready To Resume Fight

Nicosia, Oct. 10.

The Cyprus terrorist organisation Eoka has planned to "commence hostilities immediately, if necessary," after the United Nations debate on Cyprus, it was officially revealed today.

This information was given to the Cyprus authorities by 19-year-old Michael Asholtis, a leading Eoka terrorist, who yesterday surrendered to the Cyprus security forces because he was "fed up with the Eoka," during interrogation today.

Asholtis told interrogators that he received a letter from top Eoka leader, Grivas, ordering him to commence hostilities. It was necessary after the United Nations debate on Cyprus.

Asholtis handed over to the security forces a list of names, running into three figures, of "traitors" due for execution by the Eoka. If the organisation's campaign was resumed.

WARSAW RIOTS AFTERMATH:

Youths Indicted: Vodka Goes On Ration

Warsaw, Oct. 10.

The first indictments were handed down today against 23 young persons who allegedly participated in anti-government riots here last week.

Included among the accused were 20 boys between 14 and 17 years of age, and three between 17 and 20.

Six other youths who reportedly took part in the rioting at the Warsaw Technical Institute on October 3 to 6, will be tried separately on lesser counts.

Meanwhile, it was announced that vodka has been rationed in Warsaw as a result of recent student rioting.

The Polish P.A.P. News Agency reported that the Warsaw Chamber of Commerce decided on October 5 to order all restaurants and cafes in the city to sell no more than 50 cubic centimeters of vodka to each customer.

The directive also specified that customers must eat at least a main course before ordering the vodka.

The decision to ration the vodka was taken following demonstrations last week by students at the Warsaw Polytechnic Institute in protest against the suspension of the student newspaper "Po Prostu." —France-Press.

An Apple A Day? But These Won't Keep The Doctor Away

A Government Medical Department spokesman this morning advised people buying apples imported from Japan to either wash or peel the fruit before eating it.

He confirmed that investigations had shown an extremely small amount of arsenic on the skin of the apples, presumably the result of insecticide spraying.

"The quantity of arsenic is very small, however, and should not cause any ill-effects unless the apples are consumed in large amounts, say about 10 pounds or more a day," the spokesman said.

"But to completely eliminate any possibility of minor illness, it is suggested that all such fruit should be either washed or peeled before eating."

A European resident told the China Mail this morning that he ate an unpeeled apple with his lunch last Sunday. A little more than 24 hours later he experienced a "violent reaction" in his stomach.

He said he felt a weakening effect which kept him away from work the next day.

However, the informant said he could not say from where his servant had purchased the apple and neither could he definitely say that his illness was brought about by the eating of the apple.

He added, however, that he had eaten the same type of apples in the past—but that the fruits were peeled before consumption.

Showdown At San Marino

ANTI-REDS MARCH IN TODAY

San Marino, Oct. 11.

Signor Alvaro Casale, a member of San Marino's four-man anti-Communist Government, said last night that 50 of his Government's 110 gendarmes would march into the Republic's Capital today between 10 a.m. and noon (0900 and 1100 GMT).

As Signor Casale made his announcement in a radio interview, Signor Domenico Morgante, formerly Communist "boss" of the tiny Republic, said the new anti-Communist Government would take over from midnight on Sunday.

He refused to say whether the 20 Left-wing members of Parliament had agreed to resign their seats.

The Socialists and Communists would meet tomorrow to decide this, he said.

Meanwhile Left-wing militiamen, who have laid up their arms, are cheerfully passing "unwelcome" slogans—and the Hammer and Sickle—on roads leading into the Capital from the Italian frontier.

Despite bonfires lit by Italian Communists on the nearby hills to encourage San Marino's Left-wingers, there is an atmosphere of relief in the Republic. —Reuter.

SUES CITY FOR ALL IT'S WORTH

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.

Lawrence August Rutherford, IV, of Michigan, is suing the City of Cincinnati "for all it's worth" because, he said, he was held without charge by police.

Rutherford said "Physical and mental damages" he suffered were equal to "all the money and property in the City of Cincinnati," which he said amounted to exactly US$91,121,111,101.99. —United Press.

Russian Nuclear Explosion In Arctic

Washington, Oct. 10.

Russia carried out another nuclear test today—north of the Arctic Circle—the United States Atomic Energy Commission reported tonight.

The Commission, in a one-sentence report, said: "Another nuclear test has been conducted in the current Soviet series; the latest test was a small explosion on October 10 at a site north of the Arctic Circle."

The current series of Russian nuclear tests began on August 23. This was described by the Atomic Energy Commission the next day as a "demonstration of moderate size."

The Commission reported another test of moderate size, on September 9 and last Monday, the Russians themselves announced a successful test of "moderate size."

On September 25, the Commission announced another Russian nuclear explosion, presumed to be a test of a hydrogen bomb. —Reuter.

COLONY'S DEFICIT OF $3.756 MIL

According to the Gazette published today, the financial statement for August this year shows a deficit of $3,756,200.07.

The revenue for August is $37,328,333.83, and expenditure $41,084,533.90. The General Revenue Balance as at August 31, is $374,018,518.82.

Ships Collide In Panama

Panama City, Oct. 10.

Two ships collided in the Panama Canal today in a blinding rainstorm. One ship went aground but no one was injured, according to first reports.

The Rangilane, a New Zealand-bound passenger liner of 21,867 tons, and the Hawaiian Tourist, a 7,000-ton freighter of San Francisco, crashed in an apparent freak accident.

The Hawaiian Tourist went aground just north of Gamboa but the Rangilane was able to continue her transit of the Canal under her own steam.

The collision occurred at 12:55 p.m. It was almost two hours later before the Matson ship was dislodged from the Canal bank. —United Press.

A Big Bushfire Circles Sydney

Sydney, Oct. 10.

An acute bushfire hazard has been declared in New South Wales as thousands of firefighters, including troops, battled all day today to save homes from swiftly moving fires fanned by strong winds.

A four-year-old girl was burned to death and 17 homes, one school and one factory were destroyed as the fire surrounded Sydney.

The Fire Chief of New South Wales said the fires were the worst of the past 35 years. —United Press.

Nautilus After Her 14-Day Dive

A world-record submarine dive of 14 days 3 1/2 hours was claimed for the United States Navy's atom-powered submarine Nautilus by her commander, 38-year-old Commander William R. Anderson, when he brought the submarine into Portland, Dorset. It was the Nautilus's first official visit to a foreign port. During her long spell under water, Nautilus travelled 5,000 miles at more than 15 knots without once surfacing or "snorkeling." The above picture shows her entering Portland—Keystone.

SOCIALISTS CONDEMN HUNGARY OCCUPATION

Continued Support For People

London, Oct. 10.

A resolution expressing continued support to the Hungarian people on the first anniversary of the national uprising was approved in London tonight by the Bureau of the Socialist International after a one-day meeting.

The text of the resolution will be released on the anniversary of the uprising, later this month.

It condemns the continuation of foreign occupation of Hungary and gives the encouragement of the socialist of the free world to the Hungarian people in their aspiration for freedom and independence.

Socialist leaders of 10 countries took part in the discussions of the International Bureau, under the chairmanship of Mr. A. J. A. Andersen, of Denmark, chairman of the Socialist International.

The bureau also decided to appoint a mission to study the situation in Algeria.

Algeria Study

The mission will consist of representatives from Scandinavia, the Belgian Socialist Party, the British Labour Party and the Asian Socialist Conference.

A secretary will be appointed. No date has been yet fixed for the on-the-spot investigation, but before they leave the mission members will hold a preliminary meeting.

They will have a very wide freedom of action within the "very general terms of reference" set for them by the bureau.

The formation of the mission had been decided by the Socialist International Congress in Vienna last July, but no action was then taken for its coming into being.

Djilas Trial

The matter was brought up at today's meeting of the French delegates, M. Pierre Comnin and M. S. Pontillon.

The bureau protested against the further trial and imprisonment of Mr. Milovan Djilas in Yugoslavia and approved a declaration supporting the attitude of the British Labour Party on Cyprus—China Mail Special.

Manila, Oct. 10. The Republic of Korea's Minister to the Philippines warned today that Japan's Asian development programme posed a serious threat to the economic and political stability of other Asian nations. Mr. Lincoln Hoon Kim said Asian countries should watch out for "another dirty trick" by Japan in an effort to regain the friendship it lost during the last war.

"There is danger to all these countries who unwittingly fall into the trap," Kim said. "I am afraid that economics and politics somehow always get together. We must look at (Premier Nobusuke) Kishi's plan from that angle."

Atsuro Kobayashi, Japan's roving Ambassador, recently arrived in Manila to feel the pulse of official reaction to the Kishi plan described as a US$500 million fund project "to encourage the development of Asian countries by putting more financial resources at their command." — United Press.

Two New Air Services To Singapore

Singapore, Oct. 10.

Two more airlines have been granted permission to open air services to Singapore, Mr. W. P. Nicol, Director-General of Civil Aviation, said today. They are Japan Airlines which is to begin a twice-weekly service to this Colony next April, and Air Laos which has been given rights to open a route via Saigon to Singapore. Its inaugural flight to Singapore is expected next month. Other international airlines, including French and Scandinavian companies had applied for routes to Singapore, he said.—Reuter.

WARNING AGAINST TAX BURDEN

Kuala Lumpur, Oct. 10. Sir John Barlow, a British Conservative Member of Parliament, today advised Malaysia against imposing "penal taxes" if she wished British investors to develop under-takings here.

Sir John, who is on a business tour of Malaya, told reporters that many newly independent countries in Asia had lost "badly-needed" foreign capital through the imposition of penal taxes. He thought Malaya was a "good proposition" for foreign investors.

Sir John emphasized that London businessmen were most anxious to see what progress Malaya was going to make.—Reuter.

PORTUGAL'S CASE

The Hague, Oct. 10. Portugal denied today that it sought to infringe on Indian sovereignty when it petitioned the International Court for the right of transit between Portuguese enclaves in India.

Portuguese Counsel Innocencio Telles, replying in the Court to India's rebuttal in the transit dispute, said Portugal merely claimed its "right" to exchange sovereignty over its own territory.

Mr. Telles, Dean of the Lisbon Law School, said this right was not modified in any way by Portugal's inability at present to exercise its sovereignty.

Mr. Telles replied today to the third and sixth of six Indian preliminary objections filed last April. Another Portuguese Counsel Professor Maurice Bourquin, of Geneva University was scheduled to reply to the four others.—France-Press.

Man Will Fly To The Moon In Next Ten Years

Hahn Air Base, Germany, Oct. 10. The fastest man alive said today that flights to the moon would be possible within the next ten years — and put in his bid to be on the first one.

Mr. Col. Frank K. Everest, now Commander of the U.S. 461st Fighter Day Squadron of the 36th Fighter Day Wing here, said the starting date for space travel over the 238,857-mile route to the moon "is governed strictly by how hard anybody wants to go to work on it."

Everest conceded that the Soviets "beat us to the punch" with their space satellite. But he said he believes the U.S. satellite will be better and will provide more scientific data once it is launched.

The Colonel knows better than any other man alive what it is like to fly through high altitudes at tremendous speeds. He flew the Bell X-2 rocket plane 1,900 miles per hour in September, 1956.

Capt. Milburn G. Apt broke the record by 200 miles an hour in the same plane several months later, but was killed when the plane crashed.

"It has been my lifelong dream to be the first man to go to the moon," Colonel Everest said. "If a man can contribute something to humanity during his lifetime by his pioneering, then he has lived a full life."

"By going to the moon you would aid humanity by expanding our environment and our knowledge of the world we live in."

Colonel Everest said rocket engines "that can do the job" already are in existence. The main problem, he said, is finding a propellant powerful enough to carry the spaceship out of range of the earth's gravity pull.

More Power

The Russians solved the problem last week with the rocket that started their space satellite, but a ship to carry a pilot or passengers to the moon would demand several hundred more times the power.

"Once you're up in space between the two atmospheres — the earth's and the moon's — there's no trouble," Everest said. "It doesn't take any power. It's just a matter of putting yourself in the right direction."

Col. Everest said enough fuel will have to be carried to steer the ship through the moon's atmosphere and brake it for a landing, with reserves enough for the return start and landing on earth.—United Press.

Freemont, Ohio, Oct. 10. Trash collectors made a clean sweep of things, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binkley discovered.

WE FLEW ALONGSIDE IT FOR A FEW MOMENTS

Norfolk, Virginia, Oct. 10. The Navy pilots told a hair-raising story here of how their four-engine cargo plane nearly collided with a strange fireball over Utah today.

Lt. Cmdr James Monaghan said the light bluish-green fireball seemed headed for a collision with his plane and he was forced to veer sharply to the right to avoid a collision.

He said he flew his plane alongside the fireball for a few moments but could not keep up with it.

Monaghan, stationed at Norfolk Naval Base here, said "It flew right past us after we turned around, and we followed it. It continued along ahead of us and seemed to disintegrate as it neared the ground."

"I'd say its speed was about Mach 2 (twice the speed of sound)," he added.

Lt. Cmdr. William S. Norris, Commander of the four-engine cargo plane flying from New Zealand to Norfolk with a crew of 15, added that "It came close enough to light up the whole cockpit."

"It appeared to be a big ball trailing fire with a long tail on it," Cmdr. Norris said.—United Press.

WAS FIREBALL A METEOR?

Tests On Two Missiles To Go On

Washington, Oct. 10. The United States is to continue immediately work on the Army's "Jupiter" intermediate range ballistic missile as well as the Air Force's "Thor" missile, the Defense Department announced tonight.

An announcement by the Department said that the Defense Secretary, Mr. Neil McElroy, who succeeded Mr. Charles Wilson earlier this week, had approved a recommendation by Mr. William Holloman, his special assistant for guided missiles.

"To continue testing of the Jupiter and Thor intermediate range ballistic missiles until a better technical basis is established for an I.R.B.M. programme decision."

The decision to continue the testing of both missiles, probably for some months, resolved a question of whether to terminate one or merge both by the end of this year.

A Defense Department spokesman, discussing the decision, said he believed "the best interest of the country is to delay dropping either test until we can provide the best possible missile."

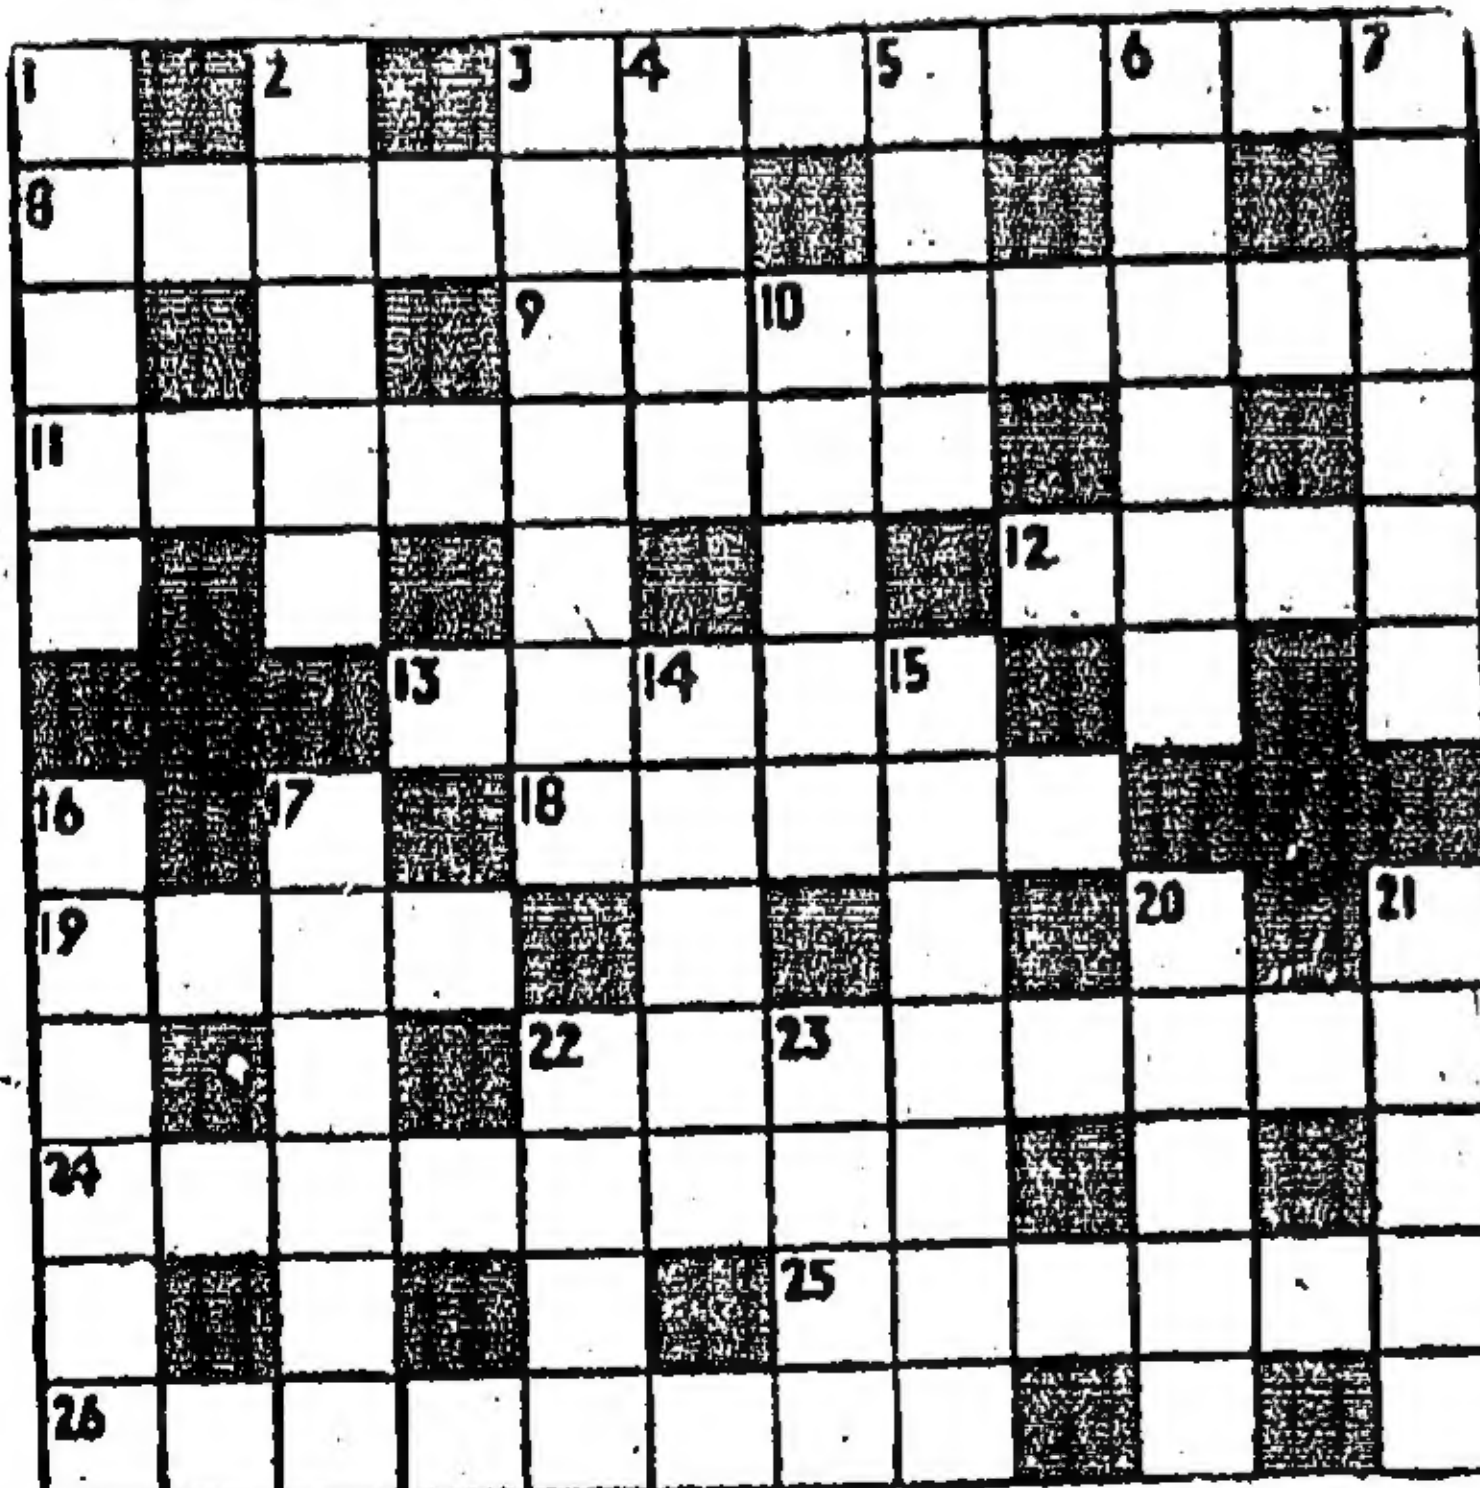

He added that there would be an "acceleration" of the testing of both of the 1,500-mile range missiles.—Reuter.

Big Cultural Show?

Kuala Lumpur, Oct. 10. Malaysia might organise a Southeast Asian cultural festival in Kuala Lumpur next year, a Government spokesman said today.

Indo Yacob Bin Latiff, Director of Information Services, said neighbouring countries would be invited to take part in the proposed giant show.—Reuter.

Investigators Sent To Scene Of Crash

New York, Oct. 10. The North American Air Defence Command at Colorado Springs, Colorado, said today it believed a huge fireball which hurtled across the pre-dawn skies of six Western States was a meteor.

Command officials said an Air Force investigating team would be flown "immediately" to the north-eastern site where the object apparently crashed.

Command officials joined several Eastern scientists in ruling out the possibility that the fireball was part of the Russian satellite launching rocket. Other military spokesmen in this area rejected the possibility it was a run-away missile.

"This is a period of heavy meteor activity," said one Air Force official at the Air Defence Command. "A shower known as glaucobimids was due October 9 (last night) with others due on the 18th and 23rd of October."

Blue Flame

"We won't have any definite information on the whole thing until an Air Force team gets in there to search the area on the ground," the Command's Public Information Service said.

The mysterious fiery object skipped erratically through pre-dawn skies in the Western United States today leaving in its wake a flood of varying reports and speculation before it reportedly crashed near the Utah-Colorado border.

Some described it as a "fireball." Others said it looked like a "white moon" with a blue flame tail. Some thought it might be part of the Russian satellite launching rocket, although that was virtually ruled out.

Others thought it was a meteor or guided missile gone astray.

Witnesses at Vernal said they saw an object that "looked like the moon—white with a blue flame that pulsed like a heart" disappeared behind low hills 20 to 30 miles east of the city.—United Press.

Mr LIM GETS THE SWORD THAT KILLED TEN...

Singapore, Oct. 10. Chief Minister Lim Yew Hock today received a Dyak sword which had cut 10 heads, including two Japanese.

The silver metal headhunting sword was a gift from Pengsil (Chief) Hilbas of Kapit village in the wilds of Sarawak in Borneo. Hilbas is here with his shapely daughter for the premiere of the Shaw Brothers production "Long House" in which she plays the leading role.

Dressed in the traditional costume of a tribal chief, including an elaborate head dress, Chief Hilbas caused a flurry in the Chief Minister's office when he arrived to pay a courtesy call and to present the sword.

Grim Reply

Admiring the sword, Singapore's Chief Minister asked the Dyak Chief if he had used it before.

"Yes" was the grim reply. "I have used it for 30 years and during that time I have cut off 10 heads including two Japanese. The other eight were those of rival Dyaks."

In their two-week stay in "civilisation," both Chief Hilbas and his lovely daughter are having the time of their lives.

They are riding in fancy limousines and elevators, sipping orangeades at cocktail parties and buying things from swank department stores.

PLANS TO SCOOTER BACK TO EUROPE

Singapore, Oct. 10. A 33-year-old Dutchman, father of five children, is making a 10,000-mile overland trip on a 55-c.c. motor scooter to Holland.

Holland-born Julius Joode arrived here by ship with his wife and five children from New Guinea.

His family will sail on the William Ruys on Oct. 31.

Joode has bought himself a scooter and plans to ride it through Thailand, Burma, India, the Middle East, Asia Minor and Europe to Holland.

He thinks the journey may take between three and five months over some "hard going" through deserts and jungles.

He plans to start on his journey in a week's time. United Press.

BEVAN CRITICISED BY BEVANITE

London, Oct. 10. Aneurin Bevan, is today criticised by a leading "Bevanite," Michael Foot, for his speech on the hydrogen bomb to the recent Labour Party conference.

Mr Foot, a former member of Parliament, directs his criticism against the Labour Party treasurer in this week's issue of Tribune, long regarded as the "Bevanite" organ.

He declares that he remains "entirely unconvinced" by Mr Bevan's arguments in support of Britain's retention of the H-bomb until international agreement is secured on its total abolition.

Without The Bomb

In his article, in which he says he is trying to answer "the alleged new case put at Brighton," Mr Foot says that Mr Bevan was concerned about Britain's relations with her allies, both inside and outside the Commonwealth.

He comments: "Some countries in the world—for example, India or Western Germany or China—yield considerable influence in the councils of the world without the supposed prestige or power bestowed by the bomb."

"China or Tito's Yugoslavia offer two particularly apposite analogies for our own case."

"Both, in a greater or lesser degree, exercise a potent influence on Soviet policy because the Russians with all their military strength need to court their goodwill."

"Similarly Britain without the bomb could still exercise immense influence on the United States."—Reuter.

Mr Heathcoat Amory denied a report in a British newspaper today that he had suggested the National Farmers' Union should urge the creation of a European marketing scheme for agriculture.

The conference passed a resolution congratulating the government "on its successful agricultural expansion policy."

Ship Aground And Taking In Water

Brisbane, Oct. 11. Agents for the 4,400-ton Japanese freighter, Elfuku Maru, said early this morning that the ship was holed and water was entering the forward hold.

The Elfuku Maru with a cargo of barley and wool ran aground on the notorious wreck reef about 300 miles east of Rockhampton early today.

Latest reports reaching here say the freighter is still firmly held.

The agents emphasize that there have been no reports of casualties.

The stranded vessel left Brisbane on October 9 for Japan.

TORY CONFERENCE STARTS Now Hailsham Speaks Out: Appendage? No!

Brighton, Oct. 10. Lord Hailsham, Conservative Party chairman, told a public meeting tonight that the possibility of direct Russian nuclear bombardment of America made it unsafe for Britain to "become a mere appendage of the United States."

Referring to the Labour Party's attitude to foreign problems he said: "I believe that the extremists, among whom even after last week I still number Mr. Bevan, would lay us wide open to attack by Russian conventional weapons. The moderates would avoid this danger only by leaving us permanently dependent on the nuclear potential of the United States."

"But we do not intend to remain or become a mere appendage of the United States of America, and the possibility of direct bombardment of the United States by Russian nuclear weapons makes it unsafe for us to do so."

"We are determined to stand firm against the Communist conspiracy without providing war, to stand beside the United States without being her satellite, to preside over a Commonwealth without deserting Western Europe, to integrate freedom everywhere without yielding to the chauvinism and opportunism of nationalist dictators."

Blamed Socialists

(Last week at the Labour Party conference which preceded the Conservative meeting here Mr. Bevan, Labour's probable Foreign Secretary if they come to power, opposed a suggestion that Britain should take the lead in unilaterally renouncing the manufacture of nuclear weapons.)

On domestic issues, Lord Hailsham blamed past Socialist policies for the rising cost of living, and said further nationalisation of industries if Labour came back would cost the country millions.

"It is wishful thinking," he said, "to tell me that the election can be won by middle class votes alone. A threat to withdraw support from the party is a threat to impose on the country a new era of controls, increased taxation and nationalisation and not a threat which operates as some kind of punishment on the Conservative leadership."—Reuter.

No Foodstuffs

Brighton, Oct. 10. The Minister of Agriculture Mr. Heathcoat Amory, reaffirmed today that Britain could not agree to foodstuffs being included in the proposed European Free Trade area.

He was replying to a debate on agriculture at the Conservative Party conference which is being held here.

"To do so would conflict both with our freedom to continue preferential arrangements with the Commonwealth on the nature of foodstuffs coming into this country and our obligations to our home producers," he said.

"If we had to choose between the European Free Trade area and the Commonwealth we should choose the Commonwealth."

Mr Heathcoat Amory denied a report in a British newspaper today that he had suggested the National Farmers' Union should urge the creation of a European marketing scheme for agriculture.

The conference passed a resolution congratulating the government "on its successful agricultural expansion policy."

Absurd

Washington, Oct. 10. The United States tonight rejected as "an absurdity" the charge by Mr. Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist Party leader, that the United States was pushing Turkey into war with Syria.—Reuter.

Huge Banner Will Welcome The Queen

Washington, Oct. 10. Newspapers here continued to give the public a flow of news about preparations for the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip.

Today's edition featured photographs of a huge banner which will be spread along the parade route, and a picture of the Queen and Prince Philip in the main room of Buckingham Palace.

All cities in the Commonwealth are expected to have the Queen's banner in other Commonwealth cities.

"Welcome Queen Elizabeth," Other photographs featured the flag of 10 Commonwealth nations which will be hung along the parade route, and a picture of the Queen and Prince Philip in the main room of Buckingham Palace.

All cities in the Commonwealth are expected to have the Queen's banner in other Commonwealth cities.

SATCHMO SAYS: THEM CATS (In Russia) JUST LIKE CATS ANYWHERE

Hollywood, Oct. 10. Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong said today of his proposed trip to Russia "It looks like it's gonna be all right."

The great Negro trumpeter player, who several weeks ago threatened to call off his trip because of disgust at the ties with the Soviet Union, said in an interview here: "I feel President Eisenhower is trying to do the right thing."

"I don't wanna make the trip to Russia if there's going to be a lot of small about," he said.

"But if they say so, I'll go. The cats over in Russia is just like cats anywhere. I'll just blow and make 'em happy."

Armstrong came here to put the finishing touches on the film "Satchmo the Great," a documentary about his triumphant tour of Europe and Africa.—China Mail special.

The Stork Story: "Utterly Fatuous"

Glasgow, Oct. 10. Telling a child he was brought by a stork made him feel he began life as a "tiny lodger asking for rooms," a lecturer in sociology declared tonight.

Dr. John Hight, whose views on sex education for children have been widely published in Britain, recently, was addressing a parent-teacher association of the Glasgow High School for girls.

The theme of his address was that it was utterly fatuous for parents to persist with the story about storks when children asked about birth.

Dr. Hight told the parents present: "The time to start imparting knowledge is the occasion of the child's first question."

Up The Chimney

He added: "Consider the utter fatuity of persisting with the story about storks."

"Do parents who talk in these terms ever give thought to how the explanation must strike the child?"

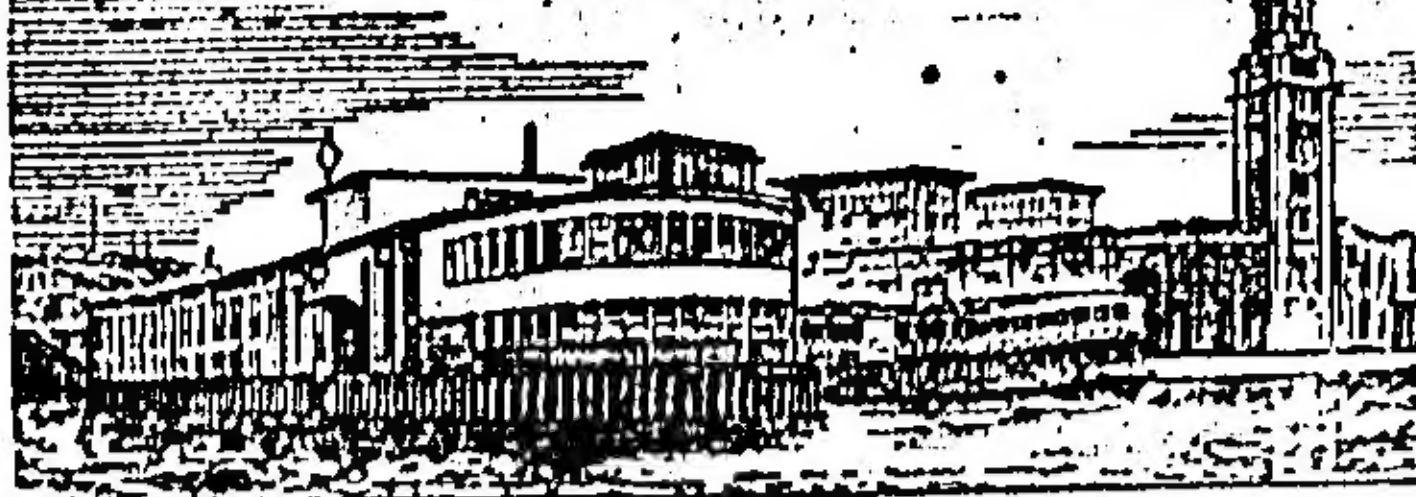

"It will seem as though his parents had given an order up the chimney just as he requests Father Christmas to bring him a fort or his little sister a doll."

"The child will feel that he began life like a tiny lodger asking for rooms."

"And if the stork's aim had been a little off target, would he not have landed next door rather than in the home he knows?" — China Mail Special.

Don Iddon's Diary

Iddon
discusses the Wall Street situation with a financial expert.Can
Black
Tuesday
happen again?
There is gloom in Wall Street. There are big economies. There are wholesale sackings, BUT...New York.
As I walked down Wall Street a plane was sky-writing above the Hudson River, advertising a Cola drink.

People put their heads back and gazed up at the white scroll on the blue sky. The man with me, a stock-broker, said: "Back in '29 when people looked up like that they expected to see a body come tumbling down."

He was exaggerating, but it is true that at least a dozen ex-millionaires ruined by the big crash hurled themselves from their skyscraper windows. Hundreds of rich men were wrecked and tens of thousands of little people badly hurt.

After Black Tuesday—October 28, 1929—came disaster. In four short days the face of America was changed, shares worth billions of dollars were wiped out, and the bust which ultimately means 11,000,000 unemployed was on.

Can it happen again? Could there be another American depression which would affect all the world? After talking to the experts here in New York's financial district, I say "No."

There is gloom in the narrow passageways and chasms of Wall Street, but there is no panic. Stocks are down at their lowest point for two years and daily the value of shares shrinks, but talk of another '29 is dismissed as hysterical.

"It can't happen because the Government won't let it," every brokerage house will tell you. I've said: "But George Humphrey, who was supposed to be one of the best Secretaries of the Treasury, said it could, and warned of a depression that will make your hair curl unless inflation is halted."

Inflation, transparently, has not been halted and the cost of living reached a record peak this week. All year it has been bad in the Money Market, but the last few weeks have been particularly disappointing. Throughout the summer business men and bankers, stocks salesmen and brokers, had assured me that there would be an upturn once autumn began and the holidays were over. There has not been an upturn—there has been a further downturn.

Have you really got flu—or is it a hangover?

LONDON.
THEY used to speak of the Yellow Peril. Now it's Asian flu. People only have to wake up in the morning with a slight headache and they say: "I've got it." They forget that the night before they might have had a rather convivial evening. I tried to reassure Mrs. Atkins: "There's less Asian flu about than we are led to believe," I said, when she came to my surgery. "No need to panic."

Mrs. Atkins hoped to get an injection against A/Asia/57, as this is officially called.

Her brother's wife, Mabel, had a headache with general aches and pains and Mrs. Atkins had visited her last week.

I explained to her that as yet vaccines against the Asian flu are not generally available, though there would be news about that soon.

"Mabel, I'm sure, has the flu," Mrs. Atkins persisted.

And so she might have had. But that was no guarantee it was A/Asia/57. Asian flu can only be properly diagnosed by laboratory tests, and these take a few weeks.

So by the time the results are available the patient is well on top of his form, and doesn't care if he had Asian flu or an Afghanistan cold.

"But there's danger in assuming we have flu as soon as we feel unwell," I said. "A person may have, say, a tooth abscess or something like that, and a temperature rise goes to bed with an aspirin and expects his flu to clear up. As a result the right treatment is delayed."

Of course all this panic goes back to 1918 when 15,000,000 lives were lost in the Spanish flu epidemic. Far more than you have to do is to remember whether or not you had a particularly heavy cold that year!

But the present Asian variety, though highly infectious, is mild. Milder even than the flu you suffered from last year or the year before. Temperatures are usually only raised for two days and there's no post-influenza depression either.

May be immune

The only thing that worries doctors, I said, is that the 1918 influenza, when it began, also was mild. But it suddenly became extremely virulent.

Still A/Asia/57 began as long ago as last February in Peking. And though it has spread from Asia to Europe there is no sign of its becoming more virulent in any way at all. It is merely as a precaution that laboratories are working overtime to produce a vaccine available for everybody.

There will probably never be real need for these vaccines to be distributed except for selected cases.

And if Mabel has had the flu, Asian flu, well, she can be pleased, I said, "because she won't get it again."

Indeed, if you've ever got washed, to the Chinese there are good reasons that you should.

may already be immune to A/Asia/57. A similar virus was doing the rounds in 1959. All you have to do is to remember whether or not you had a particularly heavy cold that year!

On the other hand ordinary influenza does not give a person immunity against the Asian variety nor vice versa. But it doesn't matter too much anyway.

You wouldn't worry about ordinary influenza so why be scared of Asian flu when in fact it's milder? As for complications—these rarely occur. And if they do, they usually can be combated with antibiotics.

"What has led to this outbreak of Asian flu?" Mrs. Atkins asked.

Doctors do not know exactly. Some believe that there has been a mutation of an ordinary influenza virus as a result of extra radiation caused by H-bomb tests. Certainly, there have been more tests in Asia than in this part of the hemisphere. Still, people tend to blame the atom bombs for everything from the weather to green flies in the roses.

Mrs. Atkins looked thoughtful. "What's the matter, Mrs. Atkins?" I said.

"Is it all right to take my washing to the Chinese laundry?" she asked.

Firings have been wholesale, economies drastic. Men who were getting $5,000 bonuses two Christmases ago are now being told to keep a record of long-distance calls and to keep the calls down.

In the big, bouncing year of 1955, just two years ago, I made several thousand dollars in the market and thought, "This is the life." Some of the gains were wiped out last year and at the beginning of this year I got out of everything except blue chips and slidged and put the dollars in the savings bank.

The splendid dream of young Keith Funston who, as president of the New York Stock Exchange, was to sell the stocks to the masses, has faded and could become a nightmare. Funston said: "Unless the stock market is brought to the people, unless it becomes a more prominent part in the life of the many rather than the few, it may dissipate its strength and wither."

There is a slowdown in business generally, with factory orders down six per cent, and the output of industry down 1.4 per cent. That has the average American worried. Although Washington and Wall Street insist there will be no crash and no depression, nine out of ten specialists agree that the brightest bloom is off the boom.

But definitely there will be no crash. Why? Because of a whole series of regulations—the Banking Act of 1933, the Securities Act of 1934, the Securities Exchange Commission, the Investment Trust Act, the Johnson Act, and others. They have curbed and largely eliminated wild speculation.

The big men, the tycoons and titans of America are showing no apprehension. But they have nest eggs big enough to keep whole flocks alive.

THREE INCHES

HUGH POND

MAJOR BILL FRASER, leader of a group of Special Air Service men, was parachuted into occupied France during August, 1944. His job: to sabotage enemy installations and harass the Germans wherever he could find them.

He was dropped into the middle of a thick wood and ended up hanging from the branches of a tree. It was dark. Some weeks before a fellow officer, Pedro Fraser McGuckey, had found himself in a similar situation. He cut the rigging lines of his parachute and fell 20ft. to the ground, seriously injuring his ankles.

Major Fraser decided he would not take the risk. All through the night he swung gently to and fro.

With the first flush of dawn he gazed downwards and found his feet were three inches from the ground.

This is one of the few humorous tales told in a book which tells the story of that heroic band of young men of the Special Air Service.

Hitler was so incensed by their activities that he issued a special order: "Captured S.A.S. troops must be handed over at once to the nearest Gestapo unit. These men are very dangerous... they must be ruthlessly exterminated."

"These Men Are Dangerous," by D. I. Harrison, Cassell, 16s.

Teenage Girl Caddies For Canada Cup Golf

Tokyo, Oct. 10. Teenage girl caddies are being trained daily to caddy for 30 of the world's top golfers in the Canada Cup competition which will be held here from October 24 to 27 for the first time in Japan.

Ninety girl caddies at the Kasumigaseki Country Club courses are going through special coaching. Selected were those who have caddied for members of the US Armed Forces and are well versed in English golf terminology.

"Of course there will be male caddies available if the foreign players want them," a spokesman for the Kasumigaseki Country Club said. "We began training the girl caddies because we thought they might appeal to the golfers abroad."

Girl caddies are a tradition on Japanese golf courses. They far outnumber boy caddies—United Press.

Tanny Campo's Excellent Finishing Effort Earns Him A Drawn Bout

Paris, Oct. 10.

Philippines bantamweight boxer Tanny Campo tonight drew his ten-round non-title bout against Roger Cappato of France, at the Salle Wagram ring in Paris. Although Cappato attacked throughout tonight's bout, he weakened towards the end and the judge's decision to call it a draw was obviously influenced by Campo's excellent finishing effort.

The 25-year-old Frenchman, whose only professional career defeat was suffered at the hands of national champion Dante Hay attacked from the start, and 30-year-old Campo had to call on all his ingenuity to resist Cappato's onslaughts. The Frenchman was called to order by the referee for boxing with his head down, but he also placed a series of punches to Campo's face during the opening rounds.

Agile Opponent

The Filipino, an agile opponent, was never in serious difficulties. Campo attacked from the start of the fifth round with wide swings to the body, but Cappato got in a good uppercut to the head. Although the Frenchman resumed the initiative, Campo waded out of reach on many occasions to avoid Cappato's blows. The referee had to intervene several times when the bout showed signs of degenerating. Cappato weakened in the ninth round, which went to Campo, but the Frenchman went all out in the last round, Campo, momentarily unbalanced by the Frenchman's return, came back strongly and got in some good blows to the body before the final gong.—France-Press.

NOT A BLESSING

Ging Lane, the home of Bury FC, has always been acknowledged as the best League pitch in the country. Now Manager Dave Russell is not so sure it is a good thing. "Visitors praise it and generally play above their normal form because the ground lends itself to good football. I am thinking about digging it up!"

The World Series And A Brilliant Triumph For Lew Burdette

New York, Oct. 10.

The strong right arm of Lew Burdette carried the Braves to a 5-0 victory over the New York Yankees today and gave Milwaukee its first World Series Championship.

With Burdette scoring an historic third victory in the Series, the Braves took advantage of an error by a Yankee rookie, Tony Kubek, in the third inning to go on and score four runs and that turned out to be the ball game.

Kubek, a native of Milwaukee and earlier a Yankee hero, could have got New York out of the decisive inning when he picked up a perfect double play ground ball off the bat of Johnny Logan, but instead he fired wildly to second base.

That was the only break the Braves needed, for instead of the side being retired they had two on base with only one out. They went on to knock Don (Perfect Game) Larsen out of the box and score all the runs they needed to win.

So Larsen had to take the rap, exactly one year and two days after he had pitched the first perfect game in World Series history, although it wasn't all his fault.

For Burdette it was a brilliant triumph, for the Yankees, it was an unusual defeat, a game they lost because of their own shortcomings in the field.

Those shortcomings robbed manager Casey Stengel of a record-tying seventh World Series triumph, but the Yankees were never in the ball game after that big third inning.

Official Errors

Unusual for them, the Yankees committed three official errors, and three more that didn't show in the box score. And at the time, Stengel, who could have made the difference.

After posting his starting lineup in the Yankee dugout, he decided at the last minute to put Mickey Vernon in center field. Originally he had been playing catcher with veteran Andy Carey at third base. But when Mantle reported, that he could play, Stengel took his line-up, put in Mantle, took out Carey and put Kubek at third. Of course, no one ever will know whether Carey would have made the play on Logan's grounder, but Kubek didn't—and that turned out to be the turning point.

Del Crandall's home run off Tommy Byrne in the fifth inning, which brought to a climax the richest Series ever played, so far as total receipts were concerned.

It was a new era, too, in New York City's baseball history. It ended a reign which New York clubs had held on Series Championships since 1948. And with both the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers shifting to San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, it left only the Yankees to hold the fort.

They didn't do it today.

The new Baseball Capital of the World burst into wild celebration today—the minute the Milwaukee Braves won the 1957 World Series from the New York Yankees.

Sirens screamed, car horns blasted across the city, office workers dumped bushels of confetti and stationery out of windows along Wisconsin Avenue, and young and old danced in the streets.

A long line of girls in white dresses snake-danced down Wisconsin Avenue tying up traffic. Police were grinning so broadly they could hardly direct traffic.

Governor Vernon Thomson spoke up quickly from Madison: "By winning the World Series, the Braves have done more than become World Champions. They've given us an example of skill, teamwork and ability to come back. That is and always will be an inspiration to those who admire courage and good sportsmanship."

That big third for Milwaukee started out calmly enough when Burdette fouled to Kubek. But then rookie Bob Hazle singled and Logan ripped that double-play ball to Kubek.

Kubek's throw was far to the right of second base, pulling Gerry Coleman off the bag. Coleman might have tagged Hazle sliding in, but instead elected to throw to first in an attempt to get Logan. But the throw was too late, even though Collins and Stengel protested that it wasn't.

That was all the opening the Braves needed. Eddie Mathews then doubled to score two runs and added to the show, a victim not so much of his own pitching as of his teammates' defense.

Little Bobby Shantz, a southpaw, came in to take over for Larsen, but wasn't equal to the task. He yielded a single to Hank Aaron, scoring Mathews, and then another one-bagger to Wes Covington, which sent Aaron to third. Aaron scored as Frank Torre hit into a forced play.

Burdette, often accused of throwing a splitter, made those big four hits hold up. Crandall gave him an extra run cushion with his homer, but it was one he didn't need.

He was on the ropes in the ninth when McDougald singled with one out and after Kubek flied out, Coleman and Byrne got successive singles, killing the bases.

But Mathews came up with a fine stop of Skowron's sharp ground ball down the third base line, slopped on third, forcing Coleman, and the Braves, after four years in Milwaukee, had brought that Mid-Western City its first World Championship.

Thus ended a game, before 61,307 in Yankee Stadium, which brought to a climax the richest Series ever played, so far as total receipts were concerned.

It was a new era, too, in New York City's baseball history. It ended a reign which New York clubs had held on Series Championships since 1948. And with both the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers shifting to San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, it left only the Yankees to hold the fort.

They didn't do it today.

The new Baseball Capital of the World burst into wild celebration today—the minute the Milwaukee Braves won the 1957 World Series from the New York Yankees.

Sirens screamed, car horns blasted across the city, office workers dumped bushels of confetti and stationery out of windows along Wisconsin Avenue, and young and old danced in the streets.

A long line of girls in white dresses snake-danced down Wisconsin Avenue tying up traffic. Police were grinning so broadly they could hardly direct traffic.

Governor Vernon Thomson spoke up quickly from Madison: "By winning the World Series, the Braves have done more than become World Champions. They've given us an example of skill, teamwork and ability to come back. That is and always will be an inspiration to those who admire courage and good sportsmanship."

That big third for Milwaukee started out calmly enough when Burdette fouled to Kubek. But then rookie Bob Hazle singled and Logan ripped that double-play ball to Kubek.

Kubek's throw was far to the right of second base, pulling Gerry Coleman off the bag. Coleman might have tagged Hazle sliding in, but instead elected to throw to first in an attempt to get Logan. But the throw was too late, even though Collins and Stengel protested that it wasn't.

Red China Invited To Send Swimming Team To Britain

Peking, Oct. 10. Mr Kenneth Martin, manager of the English swimming team which has just completed a successful visit to China, tonight invited the Chinese to send a team to Britain.

He extended the invitation on behalf of the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA) during a farewell banquet here for the English team.

Travel Expenses

He said that in Britain there was no government aid for sport, and it would be impossible for the ASA to pay all the travel expenses should China send a team.

"If you can see your way clear to paying expenses as far as Prague or London," Mr Martin added, "I can assure you that everything possible will be done in England to entertain you in a manner comparable to the entertainment extended to us in China."

In an interview, Mr Martin said that such a visit probably could not be arranged next year, when the Empire Games at Cardiff will be followed closely by the European Championships in Budapest. But he thought in two years time Chinese swimming probably would have improved so much as to make the trip much more attractive.—Reuter.

THIS IS A WIMBLEDON £50,000 MAKES THE LTA SHY OFF 'OPEN'

By FRANK ROSTON

What price Britain's first "Open" Lawn Tennis Championship—after the success of the International Professional tournament at Wembley? Is an "Open" any nearer, especially after the International Olympic Committee's decision to make payments to amateurs?

"Not a hope... not for donkey's years, anyway," is the official Lawn Tennis Association reply. The association takes just over £500 from Wembley Stadium and Kramer's professional troupe, as their agreed 2½ per cent of the record gate receipts. But that, in return for the goodwill in presenting a cup and furnishing the officials on an "expenses only" basis, is as far as the amateurs are ready to co-operate.

The commonsense view of the Association is that the professionals should be encouraged. They provide a top-class tennis spectacle at a time when first-class amateur tennis is virtually dead owing to the absence of the international stars. Kramer, in return, is ready to "play ball" with the LTAs of America, England, Australia, South Africa.

He will give them a percentage until such time as the ripening "Open" Championship idea matures.

Hands Off!

But the attitude of the bosses and the All-England Club is "Hands off Wimbledon."

For the last three years LTA's share of profits of the Wimbledon fortnight have been consistently round £50,000.

Says the Association: "This money goes for the benefit of English and international tennis as a game. Why, by throwing Wimbledon 'Open', should we let most of it go to professional get-rich-quick performers?"

When I asked the secretary of the LTA, Basil Reay, for a breakdown of the Wimbledon profit expenditure, he gave me these main annual approximate appropriations:—

Four abroad—Wightman Cup, Davis Cup, and sending players to compete in the French, American and sometimes Australian championships—£7,000.

Inter-county competition, including "County Week" and winter matches—£3,500.

Finding and catching young players—£2,500.

Funds to county associations for coaching—£2,500.

TOP-SECRET PROJECT A 12-Metre Yacht Is Being Built Behind Locked Doors

By DEREK JOHN

London.

Somewhere in Scotland, behind locked doors, experts are working on a top-secret project which could reverse 106 years of Anglo-American history.

The place (for security reasons it should not be named) is guarded as vigilantly as an atom plant. Workers maintain a discreet silence. They have been told: "Trust no one."

But I can tell you this much: they are working on a boat—a magnificent 12-metre yacht which, it is hoped, will wrest the much-coveted America's Cup from the New York Yacht Club.

Britain's bid to capture the precious trophy is costing about £70,000 and is being organised by a syndicate of nine Royal Yacht Squadron members. They are taking the project very seriously indeed.

And no wonder. British and American yachts have competed for the America's Cup sixteen times in the past 106 years. Britain, to her everlasting shame, has not won it once.

This time nothing is being left to chance. Preparations are being tackled scientifically; a potential crew is already in training even though the races will not be held until September, 1958.

The syndicate is determined that no details of their yacht's hull or new devices shall leak out. History has taught them that secrecy is essential.

At one time it was always customary for the British and American designers to exchange plans after the races. This was a harmless habit until 1934 when the Americans started tank-testing.

In that year Britain's Endeavour I was faster than the American's Rainbow. But she was beaten by better crewing.

Having been generously given the plans the Americans were able, by tank tests, to produce a yacht which they knew was much faster.

In 1937, the last time the America's Cup races were held, they retained the trophy as usual.

Lack of funds has been the chief reason for the 20-year lapse of the event. It is estimated that Britain's previous bids have cost £4,000,000.

Now the expense has been reduced by a change in the rules. The minimum water-line length of competing yachts has been reduced from 60ft. to 44ft. So the races will be between 12-metre yachts, with about eight in the crew.

Britain's yacht, which has been named The Sceptre, will be launched early next spring, possibly by Prince Philip.

There are four American yachts from which will be chosen a defender of the Cup in the races off Newport, Rhode Island, next September.

The match is between two yachts and the first to win four of seven races takes the Cup.

It is too early to forecast a result. But I would point out that Britain are helped by a further change in the rules.

This time, the challenger does not have to sail the Atlantic under her own "steam" before the races.

This rule has seriously handicapped British challengers in the past. It has taken weeks off their crew-training programme while the defenders were fresh and better prepared for battle.

Just As Keen

Just as keen as British yachtsmen are British women cricketers, who have sailed from England to begin their tour of Australia and New Zealand. They too, believe in long and careful preparation for matches.

For almost a year members of the team have observed a self-imposed "no smoking" rule. And recently they have avoided any late nights.

Now they are even training at sea. On board the good ship Rangitane they have put up cricket nets where they practice daily. Men cricketers at sea are usually satisfied with volleyball or deck tennis to keep in trim.

It's hardly surprising that the women are sticklers for keeping fit. Four members of the team are physical training instructors.

But what really reveals their tremendous enthusiasm for cricket is the fact that each member has to find about £200 for the Australian tour. How many of England's men cricketers, I wonder, would be prepared to fork out so much cash?

And to help further reduce expenses, these girls have collected some £2,500 from matches, bazaars and jumble sales.

England's women cricketers can also teach the men a lesson when it comes to organising a tour. They are visiting New Zealand first and then Australia.

The MCC tour always starts in Australia and so loses the chance of some fine match practice in New Zealand before the more difficult part of the tour.

Passed His Peak?

Has Ricardo "Pancho" Gonzalez, the world's top tennis player, passed his peak?

That's the question tennis followers are asking following his shock defeat by Jack Kramer and Francisco "Pancho" Segura in the London International professional tournament. He is 29; both his conquerors are 30.

It was the first time in four years that Gonzalez had been defeated in a big show tournament. It was only the second time that he had been beaten at Wembley, and the first time in seven years that he had failed to reach the final.

But the swarthy Mexican is not at all troubled by this lapse. Nor by the fact that he picked up a smaller share of the £5,000 "pot" than any other member of Kramer's troupe.

His "book" balance looks very healthy indeed—he estimates that he has made about a quarter of a million dollars out of tennis so far. And he expects to make a fortune by taking a few more years.

"I'm not worried by this latest result," he told me. "My game was OK, but after my time off I hadn't had enough match practice."

What about the magnificent performance of Ken Rosewall, who won the Wembley title at his first attempt, and the sad London debut of Lew Hood, knocked out of the singles in his first match?

World Champion Gonzalez sums up on the Aussie "twins": "Rosewall is the most improved player in the world. But Hood has the extra power, and I still think that when he has learned control he will be top player."

"But it will be a while yet before either of them can get my game figured out."

A Roaring Success

The British Empire Games do not take place until July, 1958, but it is already assured that they will be a roaring success.

All hotels in Cardiff and surrounding district are booked solid for the week of the Games. And a record number of 1,200 athletes will be taking part in this great Commonwealth jamboree of sport. There were only 800 competitors at the 1954 Games at Vancouver.

Twenty-seven countries have so far announced their intention of taking part. There will be a 114-strong team from Australia, one-man "teams" from such places as Sarawak and North Borneo.

Wales will have 100 competitors. And England will have the biggest team of all—276-strong.

Not since 1934 have the Empire Games been held in Britain and the sport-loving Welsh are determined that the 1958 Games—the sixth since the first meeting at Hamilton, Ontario, in 1930—shall be the finest of them all.

Stanley "Mr Soccer" Matthews has been invited to lead

FIGHT OVER A STONE

Lau Tin-man, 37, a stone-breaker of a Government quarry at Mount Butler, was bound over in $250 for one year for fighting by Mr. H. H. B. How at Central Magistracy this morning.

Three other stone-breakers, Lau Yin-sun, 28, Li Law-kap, 34, and Li Chau, 39, who pleaded not guilty to the same charge were acquitted when the Prosecution offered no evidence against them.

Detective Sub-Inspector S. C. Wong, prosecuting, told the Court that the complainant, Si Kee, employed by a contractor as a coolie, was also working at the quarry. At about 1.30 p.m. on September 28 the complainant removed by mistake a stone belonging to a stone-breaker.

QUARREL

A quarrel started and later developed into a fight. The defendant and some other men joined in.

The Police were summoned and the complainant was taken to hospital where he stayed for four days.

In mitigation, the defendant asked the Court to deal with him leniently, saying that he had a clear record and had to support his wife and two children.

LI LI-HUA SAID 'NO' TO MATURE

This picture was taken shortly before the "no kiss" episode in Hollywood in late August when the Hongkong star Li Li-hua refused to kiss Victor Mature in the shooting of a film. The man on the left is Mr. Frank Borzage, the director of the picture. Miss Li sent this picture to her uncle Mr. Thomas Dunn who is a senior member of staff of the United States Information Service here.

Man Died After Drinking Insect Poison

A 27-year-old man who died at Kowloon Hospital, after being found lying at his home foaming at the mouth, died by drinking an insecticide, a Coroner's Jury decided at Kowloon Court this morning.

Mr. T. Crendon sat as Coroner at the inquest into the death of Tang Yung-kan.

It was disclosed that on May 14, the Police received a message saying that Tang was ill at No. 3 Lai Chi Yuen, after drinking something. Tang was found lying in bed, with an empty bottle by his side. He was rushed to hospital, but died that evening.

Asked For $2

Tang's mother, a vegetable hawker, testified that earlier that day her son had asked her for $2, but she refused, saying she had not sold many vegetables. Afterwards, she offered him the money, but he turned it down and left the house. Later he returned and locked himself in his room. After some time, groans were heard from within. The door was broken down and Tang was found to be in great pain.

ALLEGED TRANSFER OF CHILD

Three aged widows and a 60-year-old man, this morning faced Miss B. K. Seale at the Central Magistracy charged with the unlawful transfer of a person for a valuable consideration.

Defendants are Lee Man-yung, 58, Lee Chuek, 70, Loung Sit, 50, and Chan Lai-man, 60. No plea was taken and they were remanded three days.

Inspector W. J. D. Cameron, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, appeared for the prosecution. It is alleged that on October 8, at the Tai Yuen Restaurant, No. 265A, Des Voeux Road, West, the defendants took part in a transaction, the objects, or one of the objects of which is to transfer or confer wholly or partly, temporarily, or permanently, the possession, custody, or control of any other person, to wit, a six-year-old Chinese boy, for any valuable consideration.

SENIOR TRIAD MEMBERS IN COURT

Two senior members of a well known triad society in the Colony — the Wo Yung Yee Triad — were convicted by Mr. Hin-shing Lo at Central Magistracy this morning.

Defendants were Cheung Lin, alias Kam Nga-lin, a 60-year-old hawker, of No. 22 Po Leung Kuk New Street, first floor, and Wong Yun, alias Wong Lo-yun, a 60-year-old private watchman, of No. 9 Po Tak Street, second floor.

Cautioned

They were cautioned and bound over in $500 for two years in addition to two years' Police supervision.

Detective Inspector C. Pope, prosecuting, told the Court that the two defendants were arrested by Police on August 17 and had since been detained for enquiries.

Insp. Pope said the defendants admitted that they were senior members of the Wo Yung Yee Triad Society which was very active in the Western District. They were concerned with the administration of the Society, added Insp. Pope.

The first defendant admitted that he joined the Society 30 years ago when he was at the age of 10.

Plus Ages

The second defendant joined the Society 41 years ago when he was 19.

With regard to the charges, plus the ages of the defendants and the fact that they had been detained for about two months, said Insp. Pope, the Prosecution asked the Court to consider that a caution would meet the case.

NEW DRIVER FINED $100

For driving without due care and attention, Punjab Lokani Khemchamb, Hindu merchant, c/o Gems and Arts Industry, 201, Victory House, was fined $100 and had his licence endorsed by Mr. W. N. Thomas Tam at Central this morning.

Sub-Inspector D. G. Caffer stated that on July 31, at King's Road just off Power Street defendant's private car overtook another car and a lorry.

As it passed the lorry, defendant's car collided with the offside front bumper of the lorry.

The court was informed that defendant was a new driver. He was awarded his driving licence only four months ago.

Youths Join Triad Societies

"My son is a good boy. He supports me."
"He works in a shop and sometimes gives me money."
"Since he had mixed with bad company he changed."

The three remarks were made by two mothers and an aunt for their three youths who faced Mr. D. Benson at Central Magistracy on charges of being members of triad society this morning.

The three youths admitted being members of the Wo Yung Yee and Wo Shing Tong triad societies. They all said they were forced to join.

After hearing the remarks made about the three lads Mr. Benson bound them over in a sum of $250 for two years and told them that should anyone force them to join again, it was their duty to report it to the police.

THREE OTHERS

Three other triad society members were given prison sentences this morning by Miss B. K. Seale at the Central Magistracy.

The defendants were Mak Yung-sing, 30, who was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, Siu Kong, 31, who was given one month's imprisonment, and Chou Ming-wai, 31, who was also sentenced to one month's. They are also ordered to be placed under police supervision for two years.

Defendants were charged with being members of the Woo Hop triad society, the Woo Sing Tong triad society, and the Woo Kwai Lok triad society, respectively.

THE most drastic proposal contained in the brief summary, as called by Reuter, of the Lytton Report is the demilitarisation of Manchuria. It is proposed to secure internal order by the organisation of a locally raised gendarmerie which should be foreign-trained. The conditions included in the report include the securing of Japanese and Russian treaty "rights" and the creation, with foreign help, of a system of local government. The recommendations contained in the Report are considered in Geneva to be distinctly favourable to the Chinese cause. But a Japanese spokesman in Tokyo said Japan never would permit interference by a third party in the settlement of the Manchurian dispute, nor agree to the suggestion of autonomy now that Manchuria had been recognised. The Report he said contains "much that is unfair to Japan but nothing unfair to China." The Japanese Government would strongly refute the contention that the Manchurian independence movement was instigated and supported by the Japanese General Staff.
